April 28, 2025

ʔuhʔaλhasuu Citizens and Residents of hitaču,

We are writing to share an important update about physician services for our community. As of April 23, 2025, Dr. Blewett will be providing care at the huuʔatu Health Centre every Wednesday. We are grateful for Dr. Blewett's commitment to supporting our community's health and look forward to welcoming her to this role.

We also wish to inform you that Dr. Carrie Marshall is no longer providing physician services for the hitaču community. We deeply appreciate Dr. Marshall's dedication to our community and the exceptional care she has offered over the last four years.

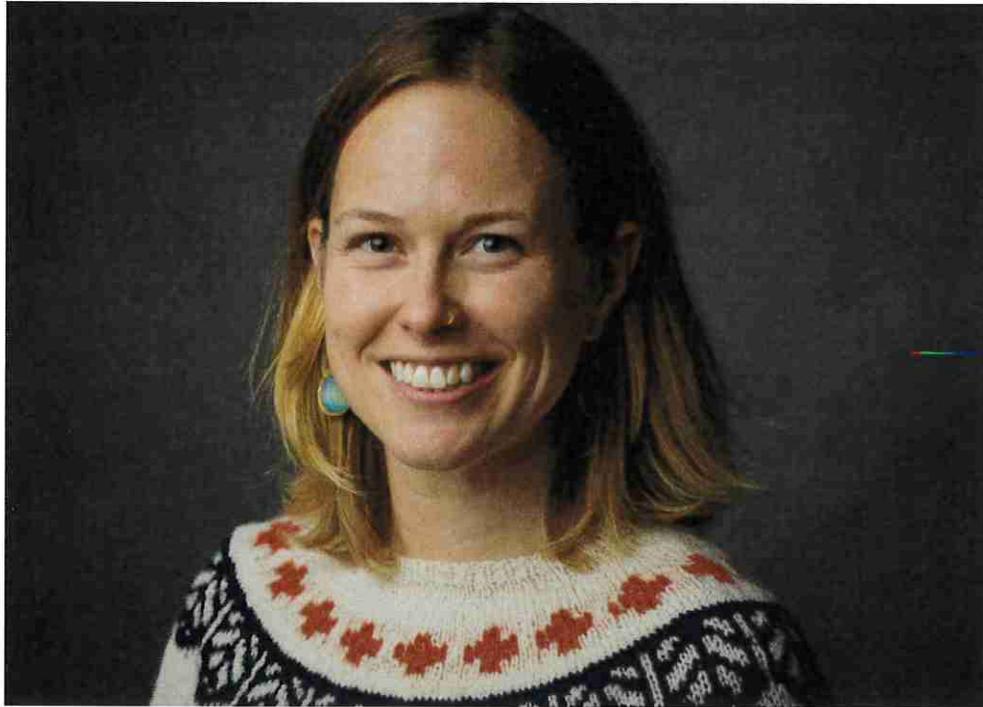

We know that many of you share a special relationship with Dr. Marshall as your care provider, and we understand that this is a significant change for the community. Dr. Marshall will continue to see patients at Tonquin Medical Clinic in Ucluelet on Fridays, and you can connect with her there.

On behalf of the Yuułuʔiłʔatḥ Government, we extend our heartfelt thanks to Dr. Marshall for her service and wish her the very best in her ongoing work. We are committed to ensuring a smooth transition and supporting your healthcare needs with Dr. Blewett's Wednesday clinics.

If you have any questions or would like to learn more about Dr. Blewett's services, please contact the huuʔatu Health Centre at moa@ufn.ca, call (250) 726-7343 or reach out to Chief Administrative Officer Kristine Brown directly at cao@ufn.ca. Feedback is always welcome as we work to keep our community strong and healthy.

Sincerely,

Yuułuʔiłʔatḥ Government – Ucluelet First Nation

WCPCI is pleased to support the introduction of Dr. Caitlin Blewett

I moved to Ucluelet just a few months ago with my partner, Scott and our almost-five-year-old, Bronwyn. I was born and raised in the Squamish, Musqueam and Tsleil-Waututh territory in Vancouver but left the city for the rural life when I moved to Haida Gwaii in 2012. My family and I are so excited to be settling on the West Coast and I am grateful for the opportunity to serve the Hitacu community as a Family Physician. When I'm not working, you can find me on the beach (usually in the water), or having a cup of tea and knitting.
